ORIGIN OF SPECTACLES

Spectacles are supposed to have been invented by Alexander de Spina, a monk of Florence, Italy, about 1285. According to Dr. Plott, they were invented by Roger Bacon, about 1280. Manni attributes them to Salvino, who died in 1317. On his tomb in Florence is the inscription: "Here lies Salvino de Armati, inventor of spectacles. May God pardon his sins!"

However this may be the credit of having been the first to use eyeglasses for the improvement of the sight is said to belong to Charles II. of England. During his stay in Cologne he made the acquaintance of a glassmaker, and looking one day through one of his lenses he noticed that he could see the objects more distinctly. After his coronation he sent for him and twenty other artisans, who made six thousand pairs of spectacles before obtaining a fitting one. It is said that by means of his spectacles the King almost completely corrected his defect. His spectacles are still to be seen in the British Museum. His son, the Duke of Monmouth, who was near sighted in one eye, used only one glass. This was probably the origin of the monocle.

Renan, in his "Antichrist," citing from Pliny, writes, "Being near sighted, he [Nero] was wont to wear at the gladiatorial combats a concave emerald in his eye." The honor of originating the monocle would accordingly belong to the Roman Emperor Nero.

The oldest painting with spectacles dates from 1417. The picture represents the investure of the burgrave of Nuremberg with the margraviate of Brandeburg, and the officiating chancellor wears a kind of eyeglass in a green frame.

SHOOTING A HORSE.

The Way to Instantly End His Misery Should He Break a Leg.

When a horse falls in the harness his natural inclination is to get up again. The shock of the fall has excited him more or less, and in his efforts to arise he may further injure himself as well as the harness.

The first action should be to sit on his head, pointing his nose upward with one hand, to keep him from struggling until the traces and all other attachments to the vehicle can be unfastened. If two persons are present this can be done without difficulty.

It a horse breaks his leg the most humane as well as the most sensible action is to shoot him on the spot. It is true that cases are on record where broken legs have been successfully treated by means of suspending the horse in a sling and pulleys, but the experiments in this direction have almost invariably met with failure.

To shoot a suffering animal and kill him instantly is not so simple a matter as it at first appears, says Country Life In America. Many shots are sometimes fired before death results. How and where should a horse be shot?

In the center of every horse's forehead a little above the line of the eyes is a little swirl something like a cowlick. Three inches above this swirl is the exact spot to lodge the bullet to insure its piercing the brain. The bullet should not be of less than 38 caliber.

For sprains hot or cold bandages are recommended. Fomentations promptly applied sometimes prevent permanent lameness. Spraining of the back sinews is only too common and unless promptly and properly treated results in knuckling and other complications. Blistering, firing and even nerving are resorted to, but it should be borne in mind that these drastic measures are often unnecessarily taken. Rest, turning out where practicable under favorable conditions, and massage often effect a cure.

Not infrequently a horse will pick up a nail. It is unnecessary to say that the first aid is to remove the nail. If suppuration ensue poultice the wound and give the animal rest until well. It may be well to remove the shoe for a time. Great care should be taken that the nail be not broken off flush with the sole and left there to fester. Horses are peculiarly susceptible to tetanus, or lockjaw, and a nail often causes it.

Meeting o the East San Jose Fire Department

The East San Jose Fire Department held their regular meeting Thursday evening, in the Fire House.

The meeting was called to order by C. O. Russell, President, W. R. Biaggi, Secretary.

Applications for membership were received from Jack Mann, L. C. Morris, Lloyd Rivin and Jake Paselli.

The following candidates were initiated: R. Russell, L. S. Morris, Pasqual Zolezzi.

Mr. Connaughton presented the company with a large American flag. A rising vote of thanks were giveen to Mr. Connaughton.

The Santa Clara fire department sent invitations to attend their annual picnic to be held at Glenwood Farm, Sunday June 4, 1911

Sixteen members were dropped from the roll for not attending the meetings once in three months as the by laws require.

There will be a fire drill by companies 1 and 2 on Thursday evening, June 8, at 7.30

The following bills were allowed: Irvine & James, badges, $420; East San Jose Post, advertising, $2.00; J. F.Cunan & Sons, 95 cents. The old fire commissioners will be deposed, and new ones elected at the next meeting, they having failed to attend the meetings. There will be four new ones appointed, Any one desiring the position can apply to Fire Chief Joe Cunan.

The meeting adjouned to Thursd evening, June 24.

LEGLESS AND ARMLESS.

Yet Kavanaugh Was a Daring Rider and a Famous Sportsman.

Far and away the most interesting member and in many ways the most remarkable man who has ever sat in the house of commons was the Right Hon. Arthur Kavanaugh, who sat for Carlow from 1869 to 1880 under conditions which would have been impossible for almost any other man.

Kavanaugh was born without arms or legs—he was, in fact, a mere trunk of a man. And yet he performed a feat from which most men with their full complement of members might well have shrunk.

Strapped on to his saddle, he was one of the most skillful and daring riders to hounds in all Ireland. On one occasion, it is said, "the saddle turned under him, and the horse trotted back to the stable yard with his master hanging under him, his hair sweeping the ground, bleeding profusely. He merely cursed the groom with emphatic volubility, had himself more safely readjusted and rode out once more."

So remarkable was the sight of this pink clad trunk perched on his big horse that a child who once saw him dashing out of a wood ran shrieking to her mother, exclaiming: "Oh, mummy, I've seen Satan himself! I've seen him sure enough!"

Kavanaugh was also an enthusiastic yachtsman and was the first to assert the right of M. P.'s to moor their craft opposite the houses of parliament. He went on a shooting expedition to Albania and published a charming book on his experiences, illustrated with admirable photographs taken by himself, while among his favorite pastimes were angling and tree felling.

His most famous exploit, however, was his ride from Norway to India. Accompanied by two friends, he rode across Russia to the Caspian sea, thence to Astrakhan and Astrabad and through Persia, laughing at the perils and fatigues of a journey which might well have daunted even the famous Colonel Burnaby.

Kavanaugh, who was the father of four handsome sons and daughters, all perfectly formed, was carried into the house of commons on the back of an attendant, and was certainly one of the keenest and ablest of legislators of his time.—London Tit-Bits.

CHANCES OF LIFE.

Figures That Indicate Your Probable Future In Years.

Do you ever wonder how long you are going to live? Ask an actuary, the man who figures it all out for the life insurance companies and who can tell with almost supernatural precision.

He'll tell you that if you are 20, and in good health, chances are 12 to 1 that you'll live beyond 30. For longer life he'll offer these odds: To be 40, 5⅛ to 1; to be 50, 3 to 1; to be 60, 1 2-3 to 1. But he'll say that you have less than 1 chance in 2½ to be 70, less than 1 in 5½ to be 80 and only 1 chance in 100 to be 90.

Suppose you are 30. Your chances run this way: To be 40, 11 to 1; to be 50, 4½ to 1; to be 60, 2⅛ to 1; to be 70, 4½ chances in 10; to be 80, 1 in 5½; to be 90, 1 in 100.

Or 40 years old. Actuaries' odds are: To be 50, 8 1-3 to 1; to be 60, 2⅞ to 1; to be 70, 5 chances out of 10; to be 80, 1 in 5⅝ plus; to be 90, 1 in 100.

Fifty-year-olds' prospects are figured: To be 60, 4⅞ to 1; to be 70, about 1¼ to 1; to be 80, only 1 in 5; to be 90, 1 in 100.

Say you are 60. It runs this way at that age: To be 70, 2 to 1; to be 80, 1 chance in 4; to be 90, 1 in 96.

If you are 70 your chances of turning the 80 year milepost are 3 to 8; to be 90, 1 in 50.

Eighty-year-old men and women have only 1 chance in 17 to stave off the funeral until after 90.

If you are 90 there's no hope for you. The actuaries have no figures.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Unskilled Rider—After the brute threw me, I went back by train and got to his stall first. Jove! he was surprised when he saw me.

How Fortunate!

From London Opinion.

"Did you have to pay anything to that man who was run over by your motor?"

"No. He happened to be a relation of my husband, fortunately."

Men's Brotherhood.

The East San Jose Men's Brotherhood of the Webster street Church, invite the men of East San Jose to a banquet to be given in the church parlors, Wednesday evening at 6:30 p. m. An extra fine supper is guarnateed at 35 cents per plate.

After supper the men will be addressed by the Hon. D. M. Gandier, the man who put through the last legislature the Supervisoral District Local Option Bill.

Mr. Gandier will discusss the battle for the passage of the bill, its import, and how to proceed under the measure to drive the saloon from any district. This is of special importance to the men of East San Jose and of Santa Clara County.

The Committee earnestly request that all who will be present at the supper, to report not later than Tuesday noon by card to Dr. W. A. Low, 135 Clay street, or Phone. San Jose 1820.

A good program, fine music, and an excellent supper All men are welcome.

Cuteness of Madmen.

In Sir William Butler's autobiography there is an amusing story about six insane soldiers who escaped while the corporal who had brought them on board the trooper was leaving at Durban and who mingled with the 1,800 sane men on the decks. The problem of the voyage was to find who were the six madmen. By the time the boat reached Cape Town twenty-six men were officially under observation, and not one of the six was among them. In the end the crazed half dozen were identified as those who had taken an especially eager part in the lunatic hunt.

Not His Language.

Lord Robson, at the dinner of the Glamorgan society, told the story of a Welsh witness in a Glamorganshire case who, having been sworn to speak the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, was asked if he could speak English or would like an interpreter. "No," he replied; "I can speak some English, but I cannot speak the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."—St. James Gazette.

Good Fellowship.

Weather Rhymes.

The following is by an Irish clerk on the weather:

Dirty days hath September,
April June and November;
From January up to May
The rain it raineth every day.
All the rest have theirty-one,
Without a blessed gleam of sun
And if any of them had two and thirty
They'd be just as wet and dirty.

DECORATED HIS SHIP.

Sir John Had Little Paint and a Fine Sense of Humor.

It is not often the administration of England's naval affairs is attended with any humorous features, but on one occasion at least an officer of the royal navy contributed quaintly to the archives of the admiralty.

Once, before the days of steel ships, the allowance of paint in the royal navy was very small, and sometimes the officers had to pay large sums in order that their ships might maintain a decent appearance. Sir John Phillimore resorted to a funny expedient either to soften the heart of the navy board or, if that proved impossible, to express his opinion. He painted one side of his yellow frigate black and white and used the rest of the black paint in printing on the other side in large letters, "No more paint!"

The navy board wrote to call his attention to the impropriety of his conduct and signed themselves, as they did officially, "Your affectionate friends." Sir John made reply that he could not obliterate the objectionable letters unless he were given more paint and signed himself, in turn, "Your affectionate friend, John Phillimore."

The naval authorities then called his attention to the impropriety of the signature, to which Sir John responded, acknowledging the letter, stating he regretted that the paint had not been sent and ending, "I am no longer your affectionate friend, John Phillimore."

His frigate was permitted to retain her original yellow, and thus the navy board punished Sir John's impertinence.

The Last Laugh.

Hogan was raffling a clock. He was fairly successful in disposing of tickets in the shop where he worked, but he ran up against trouble when he canvassed his neighbors. Dropping in at a neighbor's house, he tried to sell a ticket on the clock.

"It's a fine timepiece and it'll luk foine on yer whatnot er mantel," says Hogan cajolingly.

"Gwan, the old clock doesn't run," replied the neighbor.

"Well," drawled Hogan, changing front completely, "well, perhaps yez won't win it and then ye'll have the laugh on the fellow who does."—Milwaukee Free Press.

MEETING OF THE EAST SAN JOSE CHAMBER OE COMMERCE

The regular meeting of the East San Jose Chamber of Commerce was held on Thursday evening in the Town Hall.

Chairman Brent being absent, Mr. Bigger was elected temporary chairman.

Secretary Crowder read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were approved as read.

A communication was received from the State Mining Bureau which was read and placed on file.

Several bills were received and ordered paid.

On motion the Treasurer was ordered to pay $2.00 on the first of each month to the San Jose Chamber of Commerce for the dues of the delegate representing the East San Jose Chamber of Commerce in that body.

Mr. Magee made a report showing the progress the Citizens' Committee had made in their efforts to drain the outlying district. He reviewed the work that had been accomplished and advocated that the Chamber put itself on record as sympathizing with the movement.

Mr. Harper moved that the citizens' committee be informed that the Chamber would give them its moral support. The motion was adopted.

Considerable dissatisfaction was expressed over the fact that the East San Jose Chamber of Commerce was not represented in the committee recently appointed to take charge of the movement for the erection of a county building for the 1915 Exposition.

Mr. Magee moved that a committee of three be appointed to ascertain why East San Jose was not represented on the committee. The motion was adopted.

The committee consists of Messrs. Bates, Crowder and Fair.

There being no further business the meeting then adjourned.

Grazing Regulations Upheld By the Supreme Court

Washington, June 1.—The decision handed down by the Supreme Court, on May 1, concerning the right of the Government to control grazing on the National Forests are of great interest to Western people, and especially to the Western stockmen. The right of the Government to control its own lands within the various States and Territories is so clearly defined that it is regarded by Secretary Wilson as establishing absolutely the position these lands occupy under the law. "I am very sure," said Secretary Wilson to-day, "that the stockmen of the west, as well as the western people generally, will accept this decision of the Supreme Court at its full worth and that the controversy which has heretofore existed regarding the right to use the grazing lands within the various National Forests without permit from the Department of Agriculture will be brought to an end.

"I feel very certain," the Secretary stated; "now that these questions are so definitely settled that we shall have no futher trouble in regulating the use of National Forest ranges by live stock. Indeed we have had very little for some time, because the stockmen themselves, although originally inclined to resent the interference of the Government with their long and uncontrolled use of the lands now within these Forests, have, recently, accepted the situation and are rapidly realizing that their occupancy of these grazing lands is vastly more satisfactory under present conditions than it was in the old days when these acres were open to all comers and it was a constant struggle to obtain feed for their herds."

Expert Testimony.

There was not much to be gained from the witness on the stand, who seemed to have a wonderful faculty for holding his tongue, but the lawyer tried once more.

"You say your boat picked up the accused at 9 o'clock 'or thereabouts,'" he said. "It has been stated that he jumped overboard nearly an hour before that time. Tell me, Captain Sampson, how he appeared to you when you picked him up. If you had been required to give an opinion of him then what would you have said?"

"Well, I'll tell ye honest," said the captain, when he had disposed of a portentous yawn. "I sh'd 've said he was one of the wettest men, if not the wettest man, that ever I see!"—Youth's Companion.

USE FOR OLD GLASS.

"Until recently," said a New York man in the house wrecking business, "we never paid much attention to the window glass of the old houses we pulled down. Plate glass windows were saved, but the little square panes of ordinary glass were ruthlessly smashed as not worth removing. But the other day an optician came to me and offered a good price for them, provideded only he could first look over the house about to be demolished and select whatever panes would answer his purpose. This was his explanation:

"'Smoked and green eyeglasses are now discarded, since it has been proven that the only real relief from sun glare is a certain pale violet tinged glass—a discovery made by our naval oculists when they were trying to fix up the sailors' eyes for target practice down in sun-scorched Guantanamo. This violet glass is difficult to make, but common window panes that have been exposed to the weather for twenty years or more sometimes take on that exact shade of violet or mauve that will modify tropical sunshine to the human eye. That is why, as a maker of eyeglasses, I want to examine all the old places you are commissioned to pull down, and am willing to pay a good price for whatever panes I may find available.'"

Forty Acres and Independence.

I would exchange my age, money and acres for youth and forty acres, and think that I had the best of the bargain; and I would start the factory by planting ten acres of orchard, buying two sows, two cows, and two setting hens. Youth, strength and hustle are a great sight better than money, and the wise youth can have a finer farm than mine before he passes the half-century mark, even though he have but a bare forty to begin with.

I do not take it for granted that every man has even a bare forty; but million of men who have it not, can have it by a little persistent self-denial; and and when an able-bodied man has forty acres of ground under his feet, it is up to him whether he will be a comfortable, independent, self-respecting man or not. —From "The Fat of the Land," the story of an American Farm, by John William Streeter.

Do thou thy work; it shall succeed
In thine or in another's day,
And if denied the victor's meed,
Thou shalt not miss the toiler's pay.

An Oklahoma City man has sent $33 to the conscience fund at Washington.

The Wisconsin Legislature has concurred in the income tax amendment.

Chicago holds the beer d inking record. One million gallons a day was consumed during the late hot spell.

The Ohio Legislature has just passed a bill limiting the hours of work of women to ten hours a day.

A New York newspaper says that President Taft sits over a ton of ice and manages to keep cool while Congress sizzles.

A New York policeman who had been missing for a week was found near the police station in a dazed condition, evidently suffering from the effects of a prolonged spree.

A detail from the Shreidan-Dix Post, G. A. R., decorated the graves of the soldiers in Calvary Cemetery on Decoration Day, assisted by a number of the pupils of the school. A salute was fired over the graves by a detachment from Co. B., N. G., and several hymns were sung by the school pupils under the direction of Miss Balis The veterans were under the command of Past Commander Coates. B. E. A Spmonds acted as Chaplain and John S. Barnum as Officer of the Day. The Vetrans desire to thank Miss Balis, the school children and Mrs. Menser, the wife of the school janitor for the kind assistance rendered them on this occaision.

Meeting of the Town Trustees

The Board of Town Trustees held their regular meeting in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

A petition was received from the property owners of Clay street, between Franklin and Webster streets, asking that sidewalks. curbs and gutters be laid on that street.

A motion by Trustee Bennett that said sidewalks, curbs and gutters be laid was adopted.

Trustee Brake reported that he had purchased the flag for the school and that a flag is now floating over the school house.

Mr. Holland reported that he had turned over the matter of the repairs on the William street bridge to the town engineer.

The town engineer said that the City of San Jose is about to commence repairing the bridge. He stated that the cost of the repairs would be in the neighborhood of $400.00. East San Jose would have to bear one-half of the expense.

Some discussion took place relative to wooden curbs and gutters, which occupied considerable time and resulted in the adoption of a resolution offered by Trustee Brake that where new wooden curbs had been put in the town assume the expense of raising said curbs and gutters to the grade radius.

A motion was adopted ordering that a warrant be drawn in favor of the Bank of San Jose for a sum sufficient to pay the interest on the sewer bonds.

Mr. Brake offered a motion, which was adopted, instructing the Street Superintendent to fill in culverts on Wooster street with gravel.

Mr. Brake reported that the corner of Barnes street and McLaughlin avenue was in a deplorable condition and asked that the Marshal be requested to have this and other places cleaned up.

Town Marshal Magee created some amusement by his remarks on the dog license. He said that the town did not have a Poundmaster and that if he had to arrest the owners of dogs, for doing which he would lose the friendship and respect of his friends, he would prefer to resign the marshalship.

Mr. William Biaggi said that the town had the right to employ a detective to swear out warrants, and thus relieve the marshal.

Mr. Joe Bishop also took part in the discussion and created considerable amusement by his remarks on the reason why he had resigned as Poundmaster. He intimated that whenever he attempted to enforce the law on a friend of one of the trustees it always caused a kick.

Mr. Magee said h was ready to enforce the dog ordinance if the Board of Trustees so wished. He asked Mr. Biaggi if he did not have a dog on his premises.

Mr. Biaggi said he declined to make any admission.

Mr. Bennett moved that all owners of dogs be notified to take out licenses for such dogs within ten days or, failing to do so, that such owners be arrested.

A large number of bills were presented and referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Brake moved that the chairman of the Street Committee and town engineer confer with Supervisor Hubbard on the matter of the grading of Franklin street.

Mr. Brake moved that the three culverts be accepted by the Board of Trustees. The motion was adopted.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned until next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

EARTH and PURITY

The love of dirt is among the earliest of passions, as it is the latest. Mud pies gratify one of our first and best instincts. So long as we are dirty, we are pure. Fondness for the ground comes back to a man after he has run the round of pleasure and business, eaten dirt and sown wild oats, drifted about the world, and taken the wind of all its moods. The love of digging in the ground (or looking on while he pays another to dig) is as sure to come back to him as he is sure, at last, to go under the ground and stay there. To own a bit of ground, to scratch it with a hoe, to plant seeds, and watch their renewal of life—this is the commonest delight of the race, the most satisfactory thing a man can do. —Charles Dudley Warner.

Takes Charge of Newspaper Purchase

(From the Lake County Bee.]

Warren E. Read, who for more than a year has been foreman in the Bee office, will leave tomorrow morning for Sebastopol to take charge of the Analy Standard, the newspaper he purchased about two months ago

Mrs. Read and the two little daughters, Lucile and Barbara, will remain in Lakeport several days, and will then go to Middletown for a week's visit with Mr. Read's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Read. They will then join Mr Read at Sebastapol.

Mr. Read is a capable journalist and printer, and his services have been of great value to the Bee. Both he and Mrs. Read have made many friends during their residence in Lakeport. who will deeply regret their departure, and the Bee joins these in wishing them success in their new venture.

Mr. Read is well known here having been at one time connected with the East San Jose Post. The Post joins with the Bee in wishing Mr. Read every success.

THE OLD BATES HOUSE.

A Hotel That Once Startled Indianapolis With Its Innovations.

I remember that when Indianapolis became a great railroad center and a city of enormous proportions—population from 15,000 to 20,000, according to the creative capacity of the imagination making the estimate—a wonderful hotel was built there and called the Bates House.

Its splendors were the subject of wondering comment throughout the west. It had washstands with decorated pottery on them in all its more expensive rooms so that a guest sojourning there need not go down to the common washroom for his morning ablution and dry his hands and face on a jack towel.

There were combs and brushes in the rooms, too, so that if one wanted to smooth his hair he was not obliged to resort to the appliances of that sort that were hung by chains to the washroom walls.

Moreover, if a man going to the Bates House for a sojourn chose to pay a trifle extra he might have a room all to himself.

But all these subjects of wonderment shrink to nothingness by comparison when the proprietors of the Bates House printed on their breakfast bills of fare an announcement that thereafter each guest's breakfast would be cooked after his order for it was given, together with an appeal for patience on the part of the breakfasters—a patience that the proprietors promised to reward with hot and freshly prepared dishes.

This innovation was so radical that it excited discussion hotter even than the Bates House breakfasts. Opinions differed as to the right of a hotel keeper to make his guests wait for the cooking of their breakfasts. To some minds the thing presented itself as an invasion of personal liberty and therefore of the constitutional rights of the citizen.—Edward Eggleston's "Recollections."

A FRAGRANT TRAIN.

Cut Flower Limited Express a Unique Feature In France.

Every night during the winter months a special train, popularly called the "Rapide des Fleurs"—the cut flower limited express—of ten cars, leaves Toulon for Paris over the line of the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean railway, carrying cut flowers in baskets and cardboard boxes from all stations on the line from Nice to Toulon to the Paris markets. Certain cars are switched off to Frankfort, Berlin and Munich; others continue to Brussels and others to Calais, where their perishable freight is rushed to the markets of London and Manchester.

Certain shipments reach St. Petersburg and Vienna, and the facilities thus offered the flower growers of southern France are unique in the transportation world. A special train crew sorts these tens of thousands of parcels en route, the eight or ten sorters handling the baskets as carefully as the mails are handled.

The cut flower industry of southern France began with the impetus first given by Alphonse Karr, the ecrivain jardinier, as he was known when he settled in St. Raphael in the latter part of the last century.

Today the violets of Hyeres, like the roses and carnations of Antibes and the narcissus and Roman hyacinths of Ollioules, Le Pradet and Carquieranne, are found in the shops of Paris scarce eighteen hours after they were growing in the open air on the Mediterranean shores.

His Jeweled Snuffbox

It Came Near Breaking His Engagement

By SARAH G. BROWNE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Edwin Wheaton's ancestors had always been rich. He was born and raised amid the comforts of wealth, but was deprived of them by the tenderness of his heart. Never was he known to turn a deaf ear to any application, reasonable or unreasonable. At first when a friend applied to him for a loan he would write him a check for the amount. Then when he could not produce the cash he would indorse the friend's note, which he was invariably called on to pay at maturity. He canceled these obligations by the sacrifice of his property till it was all gone; then his indorsements were no longer acceptable to bankers.

Loans, private gifts to needy individuals and charity subscriptions finally reduced Mr. Wheaton's property to the following articles—to wit: His wardrobe, including one threadbare dress suit, one opera hat and one snuffbox set with jewels that had come down to him in the line of succession from his grandfather. These were his assets. His liabilities were sundry small bills due to tradesmen, most of which were considered uncollectible and many of which the creditors would never press on account of the orders they had filled to their debtor when he was rich and on which they had reaped large profits.

Mr. Wheaton's dress suit and opera hat were the only articles necessary to his maintaining the position in society to which he had been born. The lovable traits there were in him, re-enforced by an especially pleasant smile, did the rest. He was loved by many young ladies, but all except one felt that their fortunes or expectations, however great, needed strengthening rather than weakening by marriage. Miss Florence Twiss possessed a fortune in her own right and felt that she would rather add to it Mr. Edwin Wheaton with his dress suit, opera hat and jeweled snuffbox than another man with stocks and bonds and houses and lands.

"BRING IT TO ME," SHE CONCLUDED.

I will not positively assert that Mr. Wheaton would have chosen Miss Twiss in preference to the other young ladies who were in love with him, for his heart was plenty large enough to take them all in. Their loves evaporated in tears and sighs. That of Miss Twiss materialized. She gave him every encouragement. He returned her love, differing from the loves he bore the others in this—that his love for Miss Twiss was not snuffed out as in the other cases by her announcing her engagement to some one else.

Mr. Wheaton was emboldened to propose to Miss Twiss. She knew very well his circumstances; but, yielding to a natural desire in girls to bother their lovers, she asked him as to his property.

"It's largely in notes," he replied.

"What kind of notes?"

"Loans such as those in which banks invest their funds."

"With good security, I suppose?"

"First rate security."

"Bonds or real estate?"

"Neither. They all bear the name of an indorser."

"Mention some of them."

"Oh, that wouldn't be honorable, you know. They wouldn't like to have it known that they are in the money market for funds."

"I understand. I wouldn't have you give your friends away for the world, although they have made permanent loans of you. I trust you have held on to that jeweled snuffbox you set so much store by."

"I certainly have," he exclaimed, with great pride in having preserved one thing.

"Well," said Miss Twiss, "I'll give you an answer later. When a girl thinks of marrying a man with a heart so big that property is reduced to one jeweled snuffbox, snuff taking being out of fashion, she needs to think hard."

"Then I may hope?"

"Yes, you may hope."

"And I may have a kiss, mayn't I?"

"One little bit of a one."

Wheaton took the kiss, and in this respect it seemed that he was as good at borrowing as he was at lending, for he drew on the permission till the account was frightfully overdrawn.

Now, it happened that Mr. Wheaton was sadly in need of shoes. Like most people who do not know when, how and why they are most attractive, he deemed it essential to the success of his suit with Miss Twiss that he should keep up appearances. He did not realize that his necessities were his chief assets with the girl who loved him. He went to a fashionable bootmaker in the hope of being permitted to enlarge his already sizable account by an order for another pair of boots. While he was endeavoring to soften the man's heart he was horror stricken at seeing the object of his love enter the shop.

Wheaton, seeing no way of retreat, advanced toward Miss Twiss and greeted her as heartily as if he were really delighted to see her. She had come in to order footwear and was surprised to learn that Mr. Wheaton had his boots made by her shoemaker. He turned the topic of conversation to other matters and as soon as possible got away from Miss Twiss and the shoemaker.

The latter conceived the idea of turning this chance meeting in his shop to account. He saw in it a way to collect his unpaid bill against Wheaton. Knowing the young man's idiosyncracies well, he sent a woman to him to solicit charity, directing her to say that Miss Twiss sent her. Wheaton considered that all between him and his love was at stake. It would never do for him to refuse to give to a solicitor who had been sent to him by the lady he hoped to marry. Asking the lady to wait, he took his snuffbox around the corner to a pawnshop, borrowed $25 on it and gave the money to the solicitor.

Miss Twiss had noticed Mr. Wheaton's embarrassment when she had met him at the shoemaker's and divined the cause. She thought the matter over and sent a messenger to the shop, directing him to pay Mr. Wheaton's bill and take a receipt. The shoemaker, supposing the messenger to come from Wheaton, receipted his bill, which amounted to $20, and returned $5, with a note confessing the stratagem by which he had collected the account.

Of course the note and the surplus amount went to Miss Twiss. She was very much surprised and at the same time amused. She inferred that the last article possessed by her lover, the snuffbox, had gone to pawnbrokers. She telephoned Mr. Wheaton that she would like him to call.

"Ned," she said when he came, "I have had a long struggle with myself about accepting you. You have been so improvident, or, rather, so tender hearted, that everything you had has gone except your jeweled snuffbox. My heart, I am sorry to say, has triumphed over my better judgment. I will marry you, but I am determined that the one thing you possess shall not be bestowed on some leach or for charity or find its way to the pawnshop. Bring it to me," she concluded.

"Not tonight?" exclaimed Ned, both delighted and in mortal dread.

"Yes, tonight. You have not far to go."

"But, you know, it is an heirloom. I must have time to consider the propriety of parting with it. It has been bequeathed to the eldest son of the eldest son, to go down in that line forever. Have I a right to give it to any one?"

"That's the reason I wish it. I desire to make sure that it goes to your eldest son."

"But"—

"No more 'buts,' please, but the snuffbox. If you refuse me I shall consider that you don't trust me; that you love the box better than you love me."

"You know that I love you."

"Then prove it. Go and get the box."

"But, sweetheart—darling—I can't get it before morning. Sensible of my disposition to let things slip through my fingers, I put it in a safe place."

The girl smiled.

"It is in a safe," he added

"Who's safe?"

"One who has a deep interest in me."

"An interest of $25. Come, Ned, I know where your snuffbox is. You pawned it to get the money you gave the woman I sent you to get a subscription for the orphans' home."

Ned bowed his head.

"Why did you yield to her?"

"Consider the poor fatherless and motherless children."

"You are very weak."

"I know it. How I ever interested a girl so superior to myself I can't conceive."

"If I marry you I fear you'll give away everything I possess."

"I don't see how I can do that since you possess it."

"Well, I'm in a very despondent state of mind today about your pawning the snuffbox. Come and see me tomorrow."

Ned borrowed a dozen or more kisses and left her much relieved that the affair had not induced her to break with him forever. He went from her to the shoemaker who had jeopardized him and so represented the enormity of his offense that the repentant man gave him credit for another pair of shoes.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheaton are married and seem to get on very well. He spoke truly when he said he would not be able to give away what he didn't possess.

FOR THE CHILDREN

The Sleepy Donkey.

A man near Meadville, Pa., has an innocent looking, sleepy little donkey, which he keeps in a yard back of his house. For some time every dog that passed made it a point to stop and bark at the long eared animal. Finally the man became provoked, and one day when two big dogs growled and tried their best to jump the fence the man quietly opened the gate and let them in. If they had been Siberian bloodhounds the barking brutes could not have rushed with more ferocity upon the seemingly stupid little animal with long, shaggy hair and ears. Prancing around him on both sides and watching their chance to grab him by the throat both together, the dogs, like a brace of ravenous wolves, encircled the donkey. Squinting lazily out of his off eye, the donkey appeared most oblivious to his danger. The dogs grew fiercer. As both were about to catch his throat in their teeth the donkey with the speed of a lightning flash lowered his head and dashed toward the nearest dog as if to butt him. Round and round the donkey whirled as if on a pivot. Then his heels flew out, and the next instant fifty pounds of dog went spinning through the air. The fate of dog No. 1 was only an aggravation to No. 2. He snapped and growled more furiously at the donkey than before. In two minutes more, however, the second savage assailant was cavorting over the turf in somersaults, and the donkey had closed his eyes again and retired on his laurels.

Seal's Marvelous Instinct.

The instinct of the seal is marvelous, writes Sir Edward Morris in the Wide World Magazine. It will leave its young on the ice in the morning and, going down through a hole, remain away all day swimming in search of food. Returning in the evening, it will locate its offspring in the same "patch" among hundreds of thousands of other baby seals, notwithstanding that the ice may have wheeled or drifted fifty or sixty miles during the day from wind and tide and not withstanding that the patch may extend thirty or forty miles from one end to the other. Whether this instinct is of the class that enables the bird, without any mark or chart, in a forest with millions of trees alike to find its way back with ease and precision to its nest I do not know, but it is one of those wonders in nature before which human knowledge is brought to a full stop.

Conundrums.

What is the difference between a stylish young lady and a burglar? One wears false locks and the other false keys.

Why is a watch like a river? Because it won't run long without winding.

Who was the fastest runner in the world? Adam, because he was first in the human race.

Why should one wear a watch when he travels through sandy, dry country? Because every watch has a spring in it.

What is the difference between a baby and a nightcap? One is born to wed, the other worn to bed.

What is that which Adam never saw nor possessed, yet left two to each of his children? Parents.

Posting—A Hoop Game.

In this game a large circular track should be marked out, with stations at equal distances, one for each player.

The player at the first station trundles his hoop to the second station, the player at that station takes his to the third, and so on, the player at the last station taking the hoop on the first again. Any one steadying the hoop with his hand is out, and his station must be abolished. The player keeping in and trundling the hoop round to all the stations wins the game. If the number of players is large two or three hoops may be kept going at one time.

Gold Miners.

It is chickens that usually pick up gold nuggets. In Nebraska the ducks have gone into the business and are likely to put the chickens to shame. You see, gold is often found in the sand of water courses, where it has been washed down from the hills, and the ducks that go swimming in the water have chances for mining that dry land fowls can never have. They pick up tiny nuggets and swallow them, and then the gold is found in their crops when they are killed for the table.

The Bell Buzzard.

The bell buzzard has come back to Ohio, according to the newspapers. He was seen two weeks ago in Ross county, which is in the southern part of the state, and his little bell was tinkling as merrily as ever. He has worn the bell around his neck since the days of his youth, when some one caught him and gave him the musical necklace. Every year since then he has come back to the same part of Ohio.

The First One Up.

The first one up in our house is the smallest one of all.
Before the sunlight wakes us up he comes across the hall
And gently opens mother's door to make his morning call.
The first one up of all the flowers out in the garden bed,
The crocus, sure of welcome, shows his little baby head
Before the earth has thrown aside the blanket winter spread.
—Youth's Companion.

THE LATEST PARIS FAD.

Come out into the garden, Maud,
The onion sweet's in bloom,
And Paris, Maud, has lately ruled
It is the fad perfume.

Yes, heliotrope is out of style,
White rose and violet, too,
And jockey club and crab apple—
These all you must taboo.

But onion, Maud, is a la mode;
It's really recherche!
So, dear, just come down to the patch
And gather a nosegay.

Rub onions on your rosy cheeks,
Wear onions in your hair,
And set them round the parlor, Maud,
To fragrantize the air.

Then right before your lover calls,
Maud, eat a bunch or two.
They'll make you irresistible,
And he'll propose to you.

C. M. BARNITZ.

KURIOS FROM KORRESPONDENTS

Q. Will you please inform me if I must pay duty on eggs and fowls from Canada and at what rate?

A. Five cents per dozen for eggs, 3 cents per pound for fowls. This is generally paid with the express charges.

Q. My Leghorns have very yellow ear lobes. They are vigorous, lay fairly and were sold to me for pure bred stock. Is this color a sign of mixed blood?

A. No. White lobes turn yellow when fowl gets too much yellow corn or has yellow jaundice.

Q. What does the word "furnished" mean when applied to a fowl?

A. A fowl is fully furnished when it possesses every part with which it was endowed by nature, or if some nature faker has improved on nature and created a new breed and made a standard for that breed then a fowl of that class is fully furnished when it possesses all the parts that standard calls for.

Q. How long may the term chick be applied to a young fowl?

A. Till sex may be distinguished, when it becomes cockerel or pullet, and is thus called until a year old, when it is called cock or hen.

Q. Is it a sign of mixed blood when Leghorns get broody?

A. No. You will nearly always find some Leghorns in a flock that cluck, and the hotter the house the more broodies.

Q. If the air cell in a hatching egg grows too slowly how may I increase it? If too fast how may I decrease it?

A. To increase, decrease supply of moisture or increase supply of air. To decrease size of cell, increase moisture or decrease supply of air.

Q. About what temperature is best for an incubator room? Should incubator eggs be kept in a light or dark room?

A. Sixty to 70 degrees. Dark room the better.

Q. About how many degrees a week should I reduce the brooder heat?

A. If you start at 100 degrees a reduction of 5 degrees per week is all right, the vigor of your stock being always considered, but brooder heat should never stand below 70 degrees.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

Many fail to win at shows because they start conditioning fowls too late. This should begin in time for fowls to catch up to standard weight, replace broken feathers and become perfectly tame.

Many have often wondered whether Peter lost his appetite for chicken after his experience with the cock that crew thrice. Not so, if we judge him by his successors.

Judge Savidge of Sunbury, Pa., advised a husband who was before him for nonsupport to leave town and go back to the farm. Yes, you seldom see the man that sticks to the farm before court or in the poorhouse.

A turkey hen at Muncy, Pa., after raising seventeen poults hatched twenty-four chicks and carefully raised them. For size and vigor they beat all the hen raised broods on the farm. Why? Because Mother Turkey keeps her young away from filth and follows nature's plan.

A friend paid $100 for stock and made a total failure of his first year because he was sold wornout birds. His poultry journal guaranteed this advertiser, and the victim presented his case and got a sour lemon with a lump of sugar in it.

If you think snow can take the place of water just set some down in a pan at night where chickens have had only snow all day. They almost drink their heads off. Water is a great item in fattening, and chickens gain much less when they must melt snow to soak their feed.

Why some didn't win is often explained after the show by their statements before. They are too cocksure. A fellow is seldom kicked by a mule because his business end is so well advertised by his he-haw-haw! Like a gun, you don't know when a show's loaded till it goes off.

Much of the poultry grit on the market is inferior because it wears smooth in the gizzard. The best is true crystal. It keeps its cutting edge and, though it breaks up finally in the grinding process, is sharp to the last. We have noticed much salt, seaweed and dirt in certain brands of cracked oyster shell. This shows it was not washed before grinding. You not only thus pay for waste, but excess salt is apt to cause inflammation in the hen's digestive tract.

You should by all means have a compressed air sprayer for annihilation of fruit tree pests, and what a convenience for destroying mites in a henhouse and for whitewashing! Friend, save time, labor and gray hairs by using labor saving machinery.

WRONG IN HIS DIAGNOSIS.

We are told that the latest sensation in the medical world is the assertion of a doctor that he is able, by looking into a patient's eye, to make an accurate diagnosis of the complaint the patient is suffering from. But is this really as novel as it is supposed to be? We recollect hearing some time ago of a doctor who said to a patient who was under examination: "I can see by the appearance of your right eye what is the matter with you. You are suffering from 'liver.'"

"My right eye?" asked the patient.

"Yes," returned the doctor. "It shows me plainly that your liver is out of order."

"Excuse me, doctor," said the patient, apologetically. "My right eye's a glass one."

Father Stafford, for many years the most popular pulpit orator in Washington, attended an evening reception where there arose a tremendous argument on religion. Men and women became engaged and enraged. Father Stafford stood upon a chair and exclaimed:

"Intelligent persons are all of the same religion."

Silence at once ensued, until someone inquired:

"What religion is that?"

"Well," said Father Stafford, with a smile, "that is what intelligent persons never tell or discuss."

Then everybody smiled.

A prospective client asked William M Evarts once what he would charge for managing a certain law case.

"Well," said Mr. Evarts, "I will take your case on a contingent fee."

"And what is a contingent fee?"

"Well," said Mr. Evarts, mellifluously, "a contingent fee to a lawyer means this: 'If I don't win your suit I get nothing. If I do win it you get nothing—see?'"

"If I stand on my head all the blood runs to my feet," said the teacher. "When I stand on my feet why doesn't the blood all run to my head?"

"Because your feet aren't empty," said little Johnny.

When you go home, fill the house with joy, so that the light of it will stream out of the windows and doors, and illuminate even the darkness.

HE CAME HOME WITH THE SHIP

Drowned Sailor Reappears to His Sweetheart.

The United States frigate Pensacola, ordered to Brazil, was getting up anchor. Lieutenant Edward Fletcher and his fiancee, Grace Banning, were standing in a corner of the deck speaking the last hurried parting words.

"From all I can learn, sweetheart," he said, "we'll get back here within six months, and when we do"—

"Oh, Ned, suppose something should happen!"

"What can happen in these times of peace? No; I'll be here with the ship, and then"—

"Don't speak so confidently; there are storms and, down there, hurricanes."

"Darling, I tell you I'll be here with the ship, no matter what happens."

There was a signal for visitors to leave the ship, a long, impassioned embrace between the lovers, and Miss Banning went ashore.

On reaching Rio, Lieutenant Fletcher was ordered to command a boat's crew to go ashore and bring off supplies. The passage was not considered dangerous, but a strong wind and tide, despite the oarsmen's efforts to keep the boat steady, carried her bow around so that she fell into the trough of the sea. At the moment a gigantic wave dashed against her side, capsized her, and the young commander and all of his crew were drowned.

The shock to Grace Banning at hearing of her lover's death well nigh upset her reason. At first she cried to him piteously to come back to her; that he had promised to come back with the ship. Then she fell into a stupor, a lack of interest in everything about her. In vain her mother endeavored to provide her with such occupation and amusement as would divert her mind. All in vain. She constantly brooded over the last scene between her and her lover, especially the words spoken by each, always ending, "Darling, I tell you I'll be here with the ship, no matter what happens."

Mrs. Banning was pained to notice that her daughter was keeping track of the Pensacola. That ship on touching at Rio received orders to proceed around "the Horn" to San Francisco, thence to Hongkong. Grace watched the government reports. Indeed, her heart was in the ship sailing around the world. Perhaps she was waiting for it to return that she might again stand in the corner where she had bidden what had proved a last farewell. When the ship reached China she began to appear more cheerful. It was as if her lover was aboard and, having sailed over half the globe, would now have entered upon the return. Mrs. Banning, not realizing the cause of the change in Grace, began to hope that she was mending and even looked about for a suitable party with whom she might make a match for her. She knew Grace would never marry for love and, being indifferent as to whom she married, might be influenced to take a rich husband.

At last it was announced that the ship Pensacola was due. She did not arrive on time, and Grace seemed troubled. When she arrived Grace was in a flutter, acting as one about to be reunited with a lover instead of with the ship on which he had sailed.

Then came invitations for a ball given by the officers on board the ship. Mrs. Banning reproved the servant who unwittingly gave the cards to Grace, but was thunderstruck when her daughter told her that she would attend the ball. Finding that she could not dissuade her, the mother consented, with a faint hope that the visit under such different circumstances from the last might break the spell.

On the night of the entertainment the ship was brilliantly illuminated, while a marine band furnished music. The decks were in possession of the dancers. Mrs. Banning kept an eye on her daughter for awhile, but Grace seemed to stand up so well under the strain that her mother soon gave over watching her. Then Grace was missing. She had walked, on the arm of a naval officer, to the corner where she had parted with her lover. That corner was now in the light, and couples were walking past it to and fro.

Suddenly Grace's form quivered, she threw up her arms and exclaimed:

"Ned! Oh, Ned! I knew you would be here!"

She started forward with outstretched arms, but soon sank in a swoon.

Her attendant, astonished, picked her up, while several couples who were passing sprang to his assistance. Water was sprinkled in her face, and she revived. Then, with a strange light in her eye, she walked away, supported by her attendant. Her mother was called, and they left the ship to be driven home.

The officer who had been her escort, puzzled, went back to the place where Grace had swooned. There in the corner where she had seen, or fancied she saw, her lover he picked up several strands of wet, slimy seaweed. He wondered how they came there.

Grace was driven to a home she never afterward left. She made no mention of the cause of her shock, and her mother never asked for information concerning it. The physician who was called in pronounced her case one of hysteria, the result of monomania or brooding on one subject. However that may be, her melancholy never left her, and six months after her second visit to the Pensacola she had passed away.

HUMOROUS QUIPS

Story of Two Brothers.

1676.

Kind reader, mark my truthful tale—
No moral is annexed,
But if you have none handy
We'll print one in our next.

Two brothers in Rehoboth town,
When Philip's war began,
To show their worth were summoned forth
By the head militiaman.

John charged his gun and his canteen
All ready for to slay;
With Mister-Muster-Master Green
He boldly marched away.

(But Robert sought the barn, unseen,
And hid him in the hay.)

There came a night of gory fight;
Assumpsett creek ran red!
Oh, grisly sight! By morning light
Poor John showed up—shot dead!

So he was done with earthly work,
But Robert lived to be
Poundkeeper, deacon and town clerk
And ancestor of me.

Breaking It Gently.

Beginner—Now you've seen my style do you think you can tell me what sort of a golfer I shall make? Professional—Yes, sir, if you can stand the shock.—World of Golf.

The Real Truth.

The truth about mothers-in-law is that they have kept many a son-in-law from having to work for a living.—Galveston News.

WHAT THE STEEL TRUST CONTROLS.

The Steel Trust is in control of practically all large construction firms in the East, and either is now, or soon will be, in control of such concerns in the West.

The Steel Trust controlls structural steel. Its plans are laid to control cement. It controls the big building concerns in the East, and will control them in the West. All modern buildings of magnitude involve three elements, the price of structural steel, the price of cement, and the contractors' price, because all modern buildings of any size are constructed of reinforced concrete on a skeleton of structural steel.

Commissioner Prouty, in the rate increase decision, said:

"It is also well understood that the same men who are potential in the United Steel Corporation and the American Locomotive Works, are influential in directing the policies of our railroads. Now if, to use the popular nomenclature, the steel trust is to determine the price which shall be paid for rails and bridges; if the locomotive trust is to determine the prices of engines; the car trust the price of cars, and the labor trust the price of labor; and if the railroads have only to meet the demands made by these combinations, and charge over to the public by an increase of rates whatever is paid, a most unfortunate situation has developed."

We have here an excellent illustration of that which President Roosevelt and Senator La Follette and the Interstate Commerce Commission brought to the attentiou of the American people three years ago—the evil of incorporate ownership and relationship.—J. E. Lathrop in the June Pacific Monthly.

THE REAL ISSUE IN MEXICO.

The real issue in Mexico is the abolition of feudalism. A slave or a peon 364 days in the year would still be a slave or a peon on election day. Without at least an amelioration of the land question "free" elections would still be a farce. Practically speaking there is no land problem in the United States. Our problems are of machinery and of finnance, principally. In Mexico, these problems are secondary; the first step toward freeing the man and raising him up into the position of facing the problem of the machine is to give him access to the land. The theft of the lands of the Mexican people was the first step towards making slaves and peons of them. To become free they must get back to the land again.—John Kenneth Turner, in the June Pacilc Monthly.

During the last few years numberless changes which render an old atlas useless have been wrought. New towns have sprung up; old cities and towns have grown; thousands of miles of new railroads have been built; history has changed the boundaries of countries, and these, with numberless other changes are recorded in this new work.

It is down-to-date in every particular.

This new atlas contains 128 pages of Maps, beautifully printed in colors, representing every portion of the earth as it is Today.

These plates have been engraved from new drawings, based on the latest surveys, and are the most complete and carefully edited series of like size covering the whole earth. The lettering is clear and clean cut throughout, carefully graded in size to convey at a glance the relative importance of places.

Railroads are shown and named and, with very few exceptions, in crowded or densely populated sections, every railroad station and post office is located and named.

Another valuable feature of the work is a very complete List of the Cities of the World, giving

THE LATEST POPULATION STATISTICS.

The size of Hammond's Modern Atlas of the World is 10½x13½ inches printed on high finish paper, and durably bound in red cloth, with attractive cover stampings. It contains, among other valuable information, the following:

The latest population statistics.
Thousands of new places all over the world.
Thousands of miles of new railroads.
Thousands of miles of new cables.
Many new Counties in the United States.
Many changes in political boundries.
Many changes in names of places.

I, C O Russell, Assessor of the Town of East San Jose do swear that between the first Monday in March and first Monday in July 1909, I have made diligent enquiry and examination to ascertain all the property within the corporate Town of East San Jose subject to assessment by me and that same has been assessed on Assessment Book, equally and impromly according to my best judgment and ability at its full cash value and that I have faithfully complied with all the duties imposed on the Assessor under the Revenue laws; and that I have not imposed any unjust or double assessment through malice or ill will or otherwise; nor allowed anyone to escape a just and equal assessment through favor or reward or otherwise.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 27 day of July 1909.
George W. Waldorf
notary Public in and for the County of Santa Clara, State of California.

C O Russell.
